

Alfie Bowen

Alfie Bowen is a photographer who has autism.

Autism affects things like communication, being with other people, or how you think and feel about things.

When he was younger Alfie found he loved animals and wildlife.

He now photographs them and his work has been presented by the BBC.

Outside of photography Alfie works with charities to teach people about autism and mental health issues.

Alfie would like to change the world for people with autism.
