

Emily Rose Yates

Emily helps organisations improve accessibility. She works with a company called CCD Design and Ergonomics.

Accessibility is about things being easy to use and suitable for people with different needs.

Emily helped MetroRio, the underground railway in Rio de Janeiro be more accessible for the 2016 Olympic and Paralympic Games.

She has also helped:

- Heathrow airport

- Glasgow City Heritage Trust

- The Council of Europe.

Emily writes about disability issues for newspapers. She has presented programmes on the BBC.

Emily uses a wheelchair and runs disability awareness training.

She managed the Undressing Disability Campaign with Enhance the UK. This campaign helped people realise that disabled people have the right to a sex life.

Websites:

- www.emilyroseyates.co.uk
- www.designbyccd.com

Twitter: www.twitter.com/EmilyRYates

Instagram:

www.instagram.com/emryates

LinkedIn:

www.linkedin.com/in/emily-rose-yates

Easy Read by easy-read-online.co.uk