Professor Robert Stevens

Professor Robert Stevens teaches computer science at a university.

Computer science is about studying computers.

Robert lost his sight, but he did not want this to stop him being a scientist.

Robert has:

- worked hard to get lots of different qualifications in science

- helped to make accessible information for people who have sight problems

- written over 3 hundred science papers

- helped many students and other scientists.

Website:
www.research.manchester.ac.uk/portal/robert.stevens.html